

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Adsorption, desorption and ionization methods and apparatuses are used to produce gas phase ions for subsequent analysis. Non-porous microscopically rough ionization surfaces are used to absorb analyte in situ for subsequent ionization by laser light and release of gas phase analyte ions.